GOOD FAITH ESTIMATE/NO SURPRISES BILLING

Under federal law, as a patient you have the right to receive a “Good Faith Estimate” explaining how much your medical care items and services will cost if you are a patient who does not have insurance or who is not using your insurance.

You have the right to receive a Good Faith Estimate for the primary expected service, for any items/services for which there is a separate charge that are “reasonably expected” to be provided in conjunction with the primary visit (provided you are scheduling an appointment between 3-10 business days in advance, or you request a GFE with no appointment scheduled).

Make sure your health care providers give a Good Faith Estimate in writing at least one (1) business day before receiving your medical service or item. You can also ask your health care provider, and any other provider you choose, for a Good Faith Estimate before you schedule an item or service (provide it is requested in advance).

If you receive a bill that is at least $400 more than your Good Faith Estimate, you can dispute the bill.

Please make sure to save a copy or picture of your Good Faith Estimate.
